

To whom it may concern,

Amber is a well-rounded individual who thrives in anything and everything she puts her mind to. I have known this student for two years and feel confident in backing her in anything she wishes to be involved in. I have had her in multiple art courses where she is constantly showcasing her creative side. She is also involved in the theater program at the school which showcases her creative mind. Although I only see the creative side of Amber, I also know that she is highly regarded in academics as well, and is enrolled in other AP courses throughout the school. It is also common to see Amber after school attending some club or finishing up work from one of her classes. Her dedication to school is very obvious and I have no doubts that this same dedication will flow into all of her life's endeavors.

Sincerely,
Gerald Schifone
